

By Rita Jane Gabbett on 12/17/2014

An outbreak of H5N2 avian influenza that began earlier this month with two British Columbia poultry farms has now expanded to include 10 farms and about 233,800 birds, according to the Canadian Food Inspection Agency (CFIA).