

Adding coconut oil to rice can cut calories by up to half and provide other health benefits, according to researchers at the University of Sri Lanka. The lipid changes the rice's chemical makeup once it is cooked and cooled, reducing the amount of digestible starch, reported The Washington Post. Full Story.